● ABOUT ME

Mobile application developer specialized in Flutter and Dart, with hands-on experience designing and building cross-platform apps end-to-end — from UI/UX design to feature development, testing, and performance improvement. Complements technical development skills with practical experience in social media management and digital marketing, gained through freelance and coordination roles handling content strategy, client communication, and online brand presence. Holds a technical diploma in Electronic Business Management, combining a solid understanding of digital business operations with continuously growing, self-driven expertise in mobile app development. Motivated to keep building user-focused digital solutions while strengthening skills in Flutter development, UI/UX design, and digital marketing.
